The Holiday Décor Training Institute Manifesto

This is an authentic culture of celebration where we create & curate spaces and places for seasonal beauty, starting with our own hearts, turned toward joy

We believe beauty has a resonance, a sound that reverberates through spaces and places and it is a high honor to create and curate that beauty for ourselves and others

We believe it is an honor to steward and share our creative ability to create and curate beauty with those around us, especially during the holiday season, when many people struggle to find their joy

We believe beauty is not connected to size, scale or scope, but is connected to authentic expressions of the heart

We believe beauty is a process, not a one-time outcome

We believe beauty has motion and is not static

We believe spatial beauty can heal

We believe beauty is set apart to create healing and space for restoration of bodies, souls and spirits

We believe everyone is capable of creating and curating beauty

We believe beauty is kind

We believe beauty draws people unto itself

We believe YOU are beautiful!

We believe we are beautiful!
